

angelprint

Care Instructions

Canvas prints are for indoor use only. They must not be exposed to any moisture.

Your canvas prints, if treated correctly, should last you for many years. Please read the points below to ensure care is taken.

- Avoid touching the surface of the prints with your hands as this may transfer oils, which could affect the appearance of your prints.
- Canvas prints with UV inks are lightfast and therefore have added protection against fading. However, you will shorten the lifespan of your print if it is displayed in continuous, strong sunlight
- If transporting your canvas prints, especially on stretcher frames, use bubble-wrap or a similar protective covering, paying particular care with the corners.
- Don't rub your prints too hard or continuously in the same area.
- Avoid folding or creasing. If storing you prints, use a flat dry surface or roll them loosely into a protective tube.
- Avoid displaying your prints in too humid or too hot an environment.
- If your prints do get wet, gently dab with tissue or dry cloth and leave to dry. Avoid wiping.